Community celebration

Civic pride is message of 61st annual Fall Festival

Eric Joy is a busy man.

Along with his full-time career at Christensen's Plant Center, his family, and his duties as president of the Plymouth Noon Rotary Club, he will coordinate all the various activities at the Plymouth Fall Festival for the fourth time this year.

While it appears to be an overwhelming job, juggling the needs of all the civic groups and clubs, organizing vendors, arranging street closings, insurance, sanitary services, food vendors and helping organize so many different activities during the weekend, Joy says that the event still brings him a real sense of satisfaction.

This is an event to benefit all these groups in the community.

"The most important thing of all about the Fall Festival is that it is for the community. That's what I would like everyone to remember. This is an event to benefit all these groups in the community," he said. "That's the whole point."

Joy spent eight years on the Fall Festival committee before taking over as the president of the group and said that the job really isn't as difficult as it may look.

"These groups have almost all done this themselves for many years. They know what they are doing. They know what they need and after a few years, you kind of know what to expect that everyone will need," he said.

Joy said the groups work to make sure the popular and traditional attractions return and one of those will be the return of bingo this year.

"I am not kidding. I bet I had more than 30 people tell me last year that they really missed bingo Friday night," Joy said. "We had several groups that wanted it, but we were happy to give it to the Plymouth Canton Little League. These people just do a fantastic job, they really do," Joy said.

"I keep telling anyone who asks me, bingo is back."

And another added attraction is year, Joy said, with obvious pride, is the addition of a display from the Northville/Plymouth Fire Department. Firefighters will be on site with fire trucks and equipment for the crowds.

"They are going to have an extended 100-foot ladder at North Main, just beyond the craft show," Joy said. "I think every kid who comes to the festival will want to be down there looking at the fire trucks."

During his nearly 12 years with the festival organizers, Joy said absolutely the worst thing that has ever happened was the storm two years ago that took down a huge tree right in Kellogg Park, just a few feet from the Kiddie Rides.

"That storm had tents blowing all over the park and everyone scrambling. That tree could have been a real disaster, but those guys from DPS (Plymouth Department of Public Service) were there so fast and had it cleaned up. We were ready to go the next morning," Joy said. "Those guys are great."

Another change this year at the Fall Festival is the location of the shuttle service drop off from Praise Baptist Church on North Territorial. The new drop off will be on the corner of Main and Church streets near city hall.

The car show will be expanded this year and take up all of Forest Avenue and the alcove area where there are shops. Joy said they are hoping for 30-40 car spaces this year.

The other festival event not to miss, Joy said, is obviously the chicken barbeque on Sunday. A long-time and second generation member of the Noon Rotary Club that organizes the event every year, Joy said he wouldn't dare not mention them, especially as he is president of the club this year.

"Hey, after all, they started the whole festival, he said.

"Seriously, there is so much to do and so many groups at the festival. This really is all about the community. The morning Rotary has the spaghetti dinner, the Civitans organize the taste fest, the Kiwanis Club has the pancake breakfast every year and the Optimists have been doing the pet show it seems like forever," he said, "and there is so much more, the carnival rides, the craft show, really too much to list.

"There really is something for everybody and it is a real community event. I hope everybody comes out again to support these groups this year," he said.

Plymouth Canton Little League will sponsor the bingo games at the Plymouth Fall Festival this year from 6-9 p.m. Friday, Sept. 9.

This is the first year the Little League has sponsored the games, according to Maria Kuechler, a member of the group.

She said that the bingo games will be a fundraiser for the group which had 326 players registered last year.

"Plymouth-Canton Little League (PCLL) offers an affordable youth baseball program for boys and girls between the ages of 5 and 14 who live in, or attend a school located in, Plymouth or Canton. Kids get to learn

She said the program is managed by volunteers and that all the volunteers have successfully undergone a background check.

"We are a non-profit organization and rely on fundraising, like the Fall Festival bingo, sponsorships, and registration fees to fund our program and purchase supplies, such as personalized jerseys and uniform accessories for every player in the league, dozens upon dozens of baseballs, game equipment (such as heartguards for pitchers and gear for catchers), leasing fields, and securing insurance for all participants," she explained.

In addition to the spring baseball season, Plymouth Canton Little League also has a winter clinic for

"We haven't made it yet, but we're feeling optimistic that one day it will happen," she said.

AM Rotary Club spaghetti dinner to aid Flint children

There will be plenty of fun and entertainment at the A.M. Rotary Spaghetti Dinner this year, but the cause the meals support is one of the most serious in the country.

While Luigi the singing waiter entertains crowds enjoying their spaghetti and meatballs, Rotary club members will be hoping for a record turnout at the event which takes place in the huge white tent in the rear parking lot of E.G. Nick's on Forest Street.

"This year, the funds raised from the dinner will be used to send nutrient-specific meals to Flint," explained Kate Rosevear, one of the founding members of the morning Rotary Club, and co-chair of the spaghetti dinner this year.

"When Dr. Mona Hanna-Attisha

came to speak to the club members in April, she explained to us that the residents have plenty of water being donated, what they need are meals with the essential nutrients necessary to counter the effects of lead for these children."

Lead in children, experts say, affects cognitive abilities and can lower I.Q., which is the situation with the children of Flint who were exposed to high levels of lead in their drinking water for more than two years.

"We participated in the Kids Against Hunger project in Plymouth," Rosevear said, "but we stipulated that our 7,500 meals be sent to Flint. The nutrients in those meals is very close to what the children require."

Rosevear said that the club members are hoping that the spaghetti dinner this year will help the club send another 7,500 of the food packages to Flint. The club sent the first food boxes to a church in Flint which then distributed them to the affected families. The Rotary Club of Plymouth A.M. requested and received a grant commitment from Rotary District 6400 for $2,250. The club must match this grant with an additional $2,250 which will fund more than 16,000 nutritious meals for Flint children, Rosevear added.

This year, cost of the spaghetti dinner is $9 if purchased in advance or $10 if purchased the day of the event.

This year, there will be child's meals available for youngsters 5 and younger who eat free when accompanied by an adult purchasing a meal. The children's meal includes spaghetti with marinara sauce, one meatball, a Jimmy Johns chocolate chip cookie and a bottle of water along with the necessary table wear. Adult meals include a larger serving of spaghetti and marinara sauce, more meatballs, salad with dressing, a dinner roll and a cookie along with a bottle of Absopure water.

"We really need to thank Mama Mucci's Pasta, they donate all the noodles to us," Rosevear said, "and that is no small thing. Absopure also donates the water, which is a huge help," she added.

This year, in addition to the entertainment provided by Luigi the strolling waiter, children can take a chance at the "Meatball Toss."

"It's a large backboard with holes and the kids can toss a red beanbag, not a real meatball, at it for prizes," Rosevear said. The cost is $1 for three tosses and this money, too, will go to help provide the meals for Flint children.

The meals will be available in the covered dining area inside the tent from 4-8 and the drive through carry-out area will be available the same hours.

In addition to the Kids Against Hunger meals, Rosevear said, the main goal of the A.M. Rotary Club is the awarding of scholarships to local graduates who have overcome personal or family challenges to graduate.

Tickets are available by contacting (734) 455-5810.

Craft show celebrates creativity

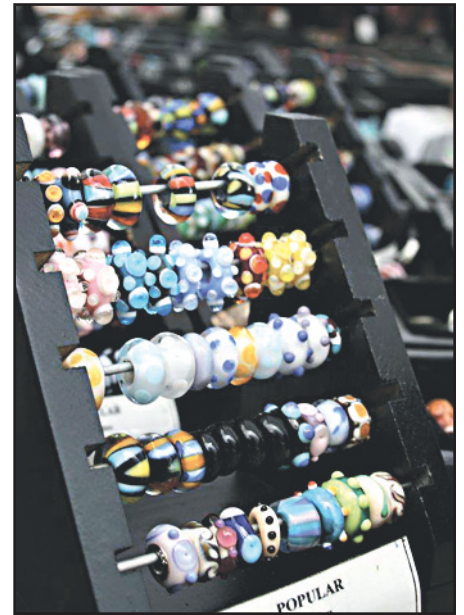

One of the most popular attractions at the Fall Festival in Plymouth annually is the craft show, where artisans bring their work to display and sell in booths during the weekend.

This year the booths will be located at Main Street and Penniman Ave. and will include holiday crafts along with jewelry and other original items.

Organizers said that it is difficult to categorize many of the items that have been on sale in the past. Items such as scarves, handmade soaps, baked goods, jams, cheeses, handbags and too many other categories to list have attracted shoppers during the past events.

The jewelry vendors are juried and limited, organizers said, to ensure that there are not too many of the same type of items at the event.

This year the crafters will be at their tents from noon until dusk on Friday, Sept. 9, from 9 a.m. until dusk on Saturday, Sept. 10 and from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 11.

Decades of planning fuel Rotary Chicken Barbeque

His experience with the event began a few decades ago when, as a member of the Salem High School varsity swim team, he and his teammates volunteered to set up tables in Kellogg Park.

Things have sure changed.

This year, Stella is the chairman of the Rotary Club Chicken Barbeque Committee, putting him at the helm of the operation responsible for serving more than 10,500 chicken dinners on Sunday.

"It's a big job, but really, we don't have to reinvent the mouse trap,” Stella said. “Every year we are tweaking and fine tuning, trying to see if we can make it more efficient, but it is basically the same process every year. It works,” he added.

“Frankly, we are in total awe of what we can accomplish,” he said.

Members of the committee advance through the ranks annually each assuming responsibility for one of the aspects crucial to accomplishing the task every year. After being responsible for the purchasing of chickens and corn, along with all the other necessary supplies, preparing the pits, rack cleaning, signage, machinery, packaging and ticket sales, along with coordinating the more than 700 volunteers necessary to cook and deliver that many dinners in one very busy day.

“It takes many, many hours of pre-

"You know, I don't take this lightly. I really do think it is an honor and a privilege to do this, to have people display this trust in me," Stella said.

"Every chairman says it every year, but we just couldn't do this without the volunteers," he said. "These people just show up and know what needs to be done and do it. Some of them we only see once a year, but they are there," he added.

Stella also said that Gordon Food Service is a tremendous donor and help to the event.

"They give us exceptional prices on supplies and their attitude seems to be, 'Whatever you guys need.' For instance, they provide the refrigerated trucks, which are crucial," he said. "We owe them a huge thanks for their generosity."

That generosity helps the Rotary Club with this, the major fundraiser for the club annually. Stella said that he is proud of the fact that the money

Volunteers begin barbecuing chickens in "the pits" early Sunday morning, cooking the chicken coated with a special seasoning recipe known only to a select few. The first dinners come off the military-like assembly line staffed by Rotary Club members and volunteers from other civic groups and the high schools at 11 a.m. Sunday, and are served until about 5 p.m. or they simply run out, which, Stella said, has happened. The dinners also include corn on the cob, a dinner roll and butter, a bottle of water or soda and a cookie, along with the necessary fork, knife and napkin, all in the sturdy box. Praise Baptist Church will offer free parking at 45000 North Territorial Road and a 5-minute shuttle ride to downtown Plymouth during the Fall Festival in the newest church vehicle.

Ride along

Church offers free parking, shuttle service

A little 'divine intervention' will once again alleviate any parking problems at the Plymouth Fall Festival.

Praise Baptist Church will offer free parking at their building, 45000 North Territorial Road, about a quarter mile west of Sheldon Road. From there, a new shuttle bus will transport visitors to the new drop-off location, adjacent to City Hall downtown.

The service will again be free, as it has been for the last three years, according to James Hooper, chairperson of missions and outreach at the church.

"Every year our number of shuttle riders increases. Even though there were cooler temperatures and some rain last year, we still had our best turnout for riders. We estimated over 400 folks utilized our service. Many of those families from last year told us they rode the shuttle the year before and liked the convenience of the quick ride and no hassle," Hooper said.

This is the 4th year that Praise Baptist has been providing this service from the church to the Fall Festival. Hooper said the church congregation provides the rides as a contribution to the community.

"Several members of our church have told me they met someone from the community who rode in one of our shuttles over the past three years and thanked them for our church's willingness to serve the community. That is such an encouragement to our members," Hooper said.

"What is especially pleasing for me personally is that Praise Baptist has earned the trust and respect of Eric Joy and the Fall Festival Board who are encouraging folks to utilize Praise's free service," he added.

The new route has changed this year will have shuttle riders dropped off directly into the craft show on Main Street.

"We will get you from our church to the festival in about five minutes; faster than finding a parking spot in downtown Plymouth," Hooper said.

Party time

Tent in E.G. Nick's party lot always attracts crowds

What they have is a good time.

A very good time.

When E. G. Nick's owners Frank Agostini and Tony Belli first decided to put up a tent in the parking lot behind their Forest Street restaurant, they wanted to add to the entertainment at the Fall Festival and provide a place those 21 and older could enjoy the music and have a glass of wine or a beer:

"We thought it would be a good time," Agostini said.

They obviously made the right decision as the Party Tent, as it has become known, is now one of the most popular attractions at the annual festival.

"We just wanted to offer some good music and drinks. The crowds were so huge in the bar area, we knew we needed more room during the festival," Agostini said. "That's how it started."

The popularity and crowds has required them to order a bigger tent this year and Agostini said he expects that Big Ray and the Motor City Kings will fill it to capacity from 8 p.m. until midnight both Friday and Saturday nights.

There will be a $3 cover charge each night, too, which will be donated to the Plymouth-Canton Vietnam Veterans of America Chapter 528, as it has for the past few years.

"These vets deserve all the help we can offer," Agostini said, "and $3 to hear Big Ray is a bargain, believe me. This band is just fantastic."

The veterans will be on hand, checking ages, collecting the cover charge at the door and issuing wrist bands for admittance to the tent.

Again this year, Agostini and Belli are allowing the A.M. Rotary Club to use the tent for their annual Spaghetti Dinner early Saturday, before the band begins.

"The whole point of the Fall Festival is to help the community and the civic groups. We have a great time and we help the veterans and the Rotary Club which makes it even bet-

Fife and Drum Corps tours country promoting historic music

Visitors to the Plymouth Fall Festival can experience a trip back in time when the Plymouth Fife and Drums Corps performs on the main stage in Kellogg Park at 11 a.m. Saturday.

In their 45th performance season, the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps consists of young people, ranging in age from 12 to 18. The musicians wear red and blue uniforms, authentic in every detail to those worn by the Commander in Chiefs Personal Life Guard of 1776 through 1983. Their music is also authentic to the 17th century, with some modern twists, and is the same as that heard by many famous names in American history. The corps musicians will appear after their most recent tour of New

The Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps is a non-profit organization of students from Plymouth and surrounding communities, and members are dedicated to preserving the ancient arts of color guard, fifing and drumming. These dedicated students practice year round and average 40 to 50 live performances each year, including parades, patriotic celebrations, and other civic events throughout Michigan.

At the close of the summer performance season, the corps travels to historic landmarks to perform. This year, the young musicians performed in New England at many sites important in the American Revolutionary War, such as Old Fort Niagara in New York; Forts Trumbull and Griswold in Connecticut; Old Sturbridge Village, the Old North Bridge (where the first shots in the American Revolutionary War were fired), and historic Buckman Tavern in Massachusetts. They also performed at the Company

Annual Taste Fest begins Fall Festival

The traditional opening event of the Plymouth Fall Festival for many is the Civitans Taste Fest, set for 6-8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 9 in the lower parking lot at Station 885 restaurant in Old Village.

More than 15 restaurants will be participating this year including Bahama Breeze, Beyond Borders, CAYA Smokehouse Grill, Cupcake Station, Grand Traverse Pie Co., Happy's Pizza and Ribs, LaBistecca, Station 885, Tony Sacco's, French Toast and Wok Asian Bistro, among several others.

According to Kathy Turnquist, who has organized the Taste Fest for the Civitans club for several years now, there may be more participating restaurants soon.

"We are serving such a variety of things again this year," she said. "There will be Jerk Chicken Pasta, cupcakes, pie, chicken wings, beef tenderloin and prime rib along with pizza and pulled pork sliders and salsa and guacamole.

"We will certainly have 15, and there may be some others, too, but as always, there will be a wide selection," Turnquist, who is also the secretary of the Fall Festival committee, added.

Rob Costanza, owner of Station 885, has been helping the Civitans for several years now with the event. The restaurant has a large, lower level parking area which is professionally landscaped by Serene Surroundings, turning the area into a park-like setting for the Taste Fest.

There will also be a live band to entertain the crowds and bar service available from the restaurant.

Costanza said that "The Reverend" Marc Falkenberry, a classic rock and blues band, will continue to play after the Taste Fest ends at 8 p.m. and visitors can stay on to enjoy the atmosphere, the bar service and the music until 10 or so.

"The volunteers though and the restaurants really deserve credit for stepping up and doing this. It's a great event, a real good time and helps a great cause."

Tickets, priced at $15, or $5 for children ages 5-10, can be purchased at Station 885, located at 885 Starkweather or at the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce office at 850 West Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth, or by calling Turnquist at (734) 459-1896. Children younger than 5 are admitted at no cost with a parent.

Rob Costanza, center, of Station 885, helps organize the Taste Fest every year.

Lions Club brings vision tests, Leader Dogs to event

Very few visitors to the Plymouth Fall Festival walk past the Lions booth without at the very least, a second look.

That's just what the club members are counting on.

The attractions don't get much more appealing than the puppies the club brings to their booth annually to promote their efforts for Leader Dogs for the Blind. The puppies, along with several trained leader dogs will be in the booth all weekend and several will even demonstrate a few of the training techniques and lessons while watching the crowds pass by.

A formal demonstration of the talents of the leader dogs will take place on the main stage at Kellogg Park 1 p.m. Saturday, when crowds are always amazed at the abilities of the dogs to provide help to those with impaired sight.

The pups and qualified leader dogs, along with their handlers will be in the Lions booth the rest of the festival weekend to talk about the process of training a puppy to become a leader dog, along with the volunteers who raise the dogs.

Fern Vining, the immediate past president of the Lions Club of Plymouth, said that the volunteers in the tent will also have information about the club which is now also actively involved in KidsSight screening, a major effort to identify visual problems of children at an early age.

"We hope to be able to offer the screening during the festival," she said. "We have screened youngsters as young as 6 months of age."

The Lion's Club KidsSight effort is a national program designed to safeguard the vision of children from 6 months through 6 years of age. According to educational experts, 80 percent of learning is visual, so if a child can't see well, he or she can't learn well. Most young children do not have their vision screened until they have problems learning of paying attention in school and by then, it may already be too late, according to the Lions Club website.

Unless vision problems are detected early and corrected, they risk becoming permanent, a situation the Lions Club is working to correct through state and local programs.

The Plymouth Lions Club was chartered by Lions Club International in 1947 and the first official meeting of the group took place in January of 1948.

Currently, the Plymouth Lions Club helps support: Beaumont Hospital Silent Children's Fund; First Step; Leader Dogs for the Blind; Lions Hearing Center of Michigan; Lions of Michigan Service Foundation; Michigan Eye Bank; Madonna University/Lions Hearing Center; Paws with a Cause; Penrickton Center for Blind Children; American Diabetes Association; Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation, Bear Lake, a camp for visually impaired youth, American Legion, Plymouth District Library and the Plymouth Historical Museum, in addition to the KidsSight effort.

Kiwanis Club will serve annual pancake breakfast Saturday

Again this year, a four-decade tradition will take place in The Gathering early Saturday morning during the Fall Festival.

Members of the Kiwanis Club will arrive at The Gathering as early as 5 a.m. Saturday to begin preparations for the annual Pancake Breakfast when more than 3,000 breakfasts are served from 7-11 a.m.

The fast-moving line of hungry patrons waiting for the amateur chefs behind the grills to load their plates with the light, fluffy pancakes and sausages doesn't slow down during the serving hours. Organizers said there simply isn't a slow time when the line isn't steady. After 40 years, however, the club members know how to keep it moving and how to cook the perfect

Early tickets can be purchased by calling Mark Riegel, (734) 718-6176 and Kiwanis members will also be selling the tickets at the festival ticket booth at Main Street and Penniman.

A dining destination

Plymouth offers unique mix of culinary styles, flavors and taste

Plymouth has become a destination town for those looking for unique dining experiences, a great burger, superior Coney Islands or a truly adventurous meal.

The community has it all, from ethnic specialties to casual lunch sandwiches, all done with a flair that makes the local restaurants worth visiting. Locals have long been aware of their proximity to great meals and when Fall Festival visitors tour the attractions throughout the area, they almost always return to sample the offerings at the various restaurants.

No matter what tastes diners may crave, or what special flavors are most pleasing, they are sure to be found in Plymouth where every meal is a celebration of good taste.

Here are a few of our favorites:

E.G. Nick's
500 Forest Ave.
Plymouth
(734) 414-6400

One of the most popular places in town is always E.G. Nick's on Forest Street where owners Tony Belli and Frank Agostini are known for great food and for great entertainment all year.

E. G. Nicks boasts an extensive list of specially-brewed craft beers and unique cocktails, along with an impressive list of premium wines.

The menu includes items like the new Caprese ravioli, with a kale and pesto sauce that brings diners back again and again. The exceptional flatbread pizzas offer unique toppings like bacon, lettuce and tomato or Caesar salad along with the expected usual pepperoni and cheeses. The exceptional flatbread crust on these treats has made them one of the biggest sellers on the late-night and lunch menu, Agostini said. The imaginative new dishes like the pear and spinach salad added to the menu have drawn rave reviews from regulars.

The menu still includes the customer-favorite planked whitefish, chosen as the best in the state by food critics and the award-winning spare ribs, Bang-Bang Shrimp and bourbon pot roast nachos.

Starting later this fall, Agostini said the menu will include a selection of gluten free and vegan dishes, which are becoming more and more popular.

Local diners know that the kitchen often offers lunch specials, using fresh ingredients and weekends almost always include dinner specials, allowing Agostini to demonstrate some of the culinary creativity that he has displayed with his various TV appearances.

Meals range from $10 to $20 or so and are served in a relaxed and comfortable atmosphere. The restaurant is known for the varied menu, family-friendly atmosphere and spirit of fun, whether there is a festival going on or simply a celebration because it is Tuesday.
